In 2011, The New Beginnings officially opened the doors to underserved single mothers in Southwest Florida. The founders of The New Beginnings saw how great the need was for single mother households to be supported and offered opportunities to grow through higher education. Single mothers face unique challenges and oftentimes struggle with financial stability due to one income, low wages, and lack of social supports. This can lead to moms feeling over worked, time starved, depressed, lonely and hopeless.

Exacerbated by the pandemic, stress and anxiety are even more pronounced for single mothers as they are the only people who can care for their children, the home and themselves. Our program comes alongside these vulnerable families to help them stabilize and ultimately establish healthier habits and behaviors.
